Call for papers

Review of International American Studies

Until his untimely death in 2009, the influence of the late Emory Elliott was felt near and far in the field of American Studies. A lauded member of the UC system, where he served as Professor of English at UC Riverside, in 2001 Professor Elliott also enjoyed the singular distinction of having been appointed University Professor, an honor reserved only for the very few, designating only those scholars of international distinction who are also recognized as teachers of exceptional ability. In this capacity, Professor Elliott gave much to many—not just in terms of the wide reach of his stellar research, but in terms of his continued efforts to foster the careers of countless others who chose to take the same path he did through the halls of academia. It is both for and because of this selfless effort that the late Professor Elliott has been missed as much as he has been remembered, and why we have chosen to dedicate the Fall 2013 issue of the Review of International American Studies to him in memoriam. In honor of the late Professor Elliott’s extraordinary achievement as scholar, teacher, mentor, and colleague, we would like to invite you to submit short papers (2-3 pages) detailing your experience with and/or memories of Professor Elliott for consideration for publication in the next issue of RIAS, which will be entirely dedicated to remembering Professor Elliott with the goal of celebrating his life and work and recognizing the significance of all that he gave, as well as the meaning of his legacy .

Submissions must be received by October 31, 2013 and must be accompanied by a brief author bio, in addition to being formatted according to the RIAS Style Sheet (below). Please use 1-inch margins all around and 12-point fonts, and submit your remembrances electronically to Cyraina Johnson-Roullier at johnson.64@nd.edu and to Paweł Jędrzejko at pawel.jedrzejko@us.edu.pl

European Journal of American Studies
<http://ejas.revues.org>

EJAS is the official, peer-reviewed academic journal of the European Association for American Studies.

Regular EJAS issues – open deadline

EJAS runs regular accretive issues and welcomes submissions on all subjects related to its interests. The Journal will post articles online in the regular issue as soon as they are accepted and cleared for publication. The accretive issues will be closed each June and December.

All articles should be addressed to the Editors responsible for respective fields:

Pawel FRELIK at ejas-lit@eaas.eu for contributions in literature, culture and the arts

Jenel VIRDEN at J.Virden@hull.ac.uk for contributions in history, social sciences and international relations.

Detailed submission guidelines: <http://ejas.revues.org/document1006.html>
